Computing Research Association

Awards for Outstanding Undergraduate Researchers

This annual awards program recognizes undergraduates enrolled in North American colleges or universities who show exceptional promise in an area of importance to computing research.

Students must be nominated by two faculty members and recommended by their department chair.

$ 1,000 Cash Prize

A cash prize of $1,000 is awarded to two undergraduate students, one female and one male, who show outstanding research potential in an area of computing research.

The two winners also receive financial assistance for travel to a major research conference. CRA also will sponsor a departmental reception for them at their home institutions.

Deadline: October 13, 2009
